GUIDE TO RESEARCH COLLECTIONS OF FORMER UNITED STATES SENATORS, 1789-1982

Supplement II

October 1987

United States Senate Historical Office
Washington, DC 20510

S920-1

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

Supplement II to the GUIDE TO RESEARCH COLLECTIONS OF FORMER UNITED STATES SENATORS contains information on manuscript collections and oral histories deposited or discovered since the GUIDE was published in 1983. In the intervening years, more than 1,500 new collections have come to light, largely through the Office for the Bicentennial of the U.S. House of Representatives and George Washington University's First Federal Congress Project, which generously shared the results of their own exhaustive searches.

A second, bicentennial edition of the GUIDE in 1989 will include all of this new material. The current supplement, however, contains only that fraction of the new information that falls into the following categories: large collections of more than fifty items, unless even larger collections have already been identified (for example, while nearly two dozen institutions holding one or two John Quincy Adams' letters have been identified, all are overshadowed by the large collections at the Library of Congress and Massachusetts Historical Society); collections of any size for senators about whom nothing was previously known (collections relating to twelve senators formerly listed as "location of papers unknown" have been discovered); and collections of members who have left the Senate due to retirement, defeat, or death since 1983.
